

WE NOMINATE

Six eminent Princetonians, whose retirement this month, upon completing nearly two centuries of teaching in Princeton University, helps explain the near-incredible development of the so-called Princeton Area into what one authority terms the "most diversified center of learning in these United States." To Ernest Theodore DeWald, Nathaniel Howell Furman, Eugene Pacsu, George Rowley, Jacob Viner and John Boardman Whitton—representing the major academic divisions into which universities divide themselves—belongs a fair share of the credit for the reputation Greater Princeton has earned not only for its out-reaching research programs but also for its capacity for linking past and present.

It is indeed significant that the retiring sextet, all of whose members have reached, or are about to attain age 68, have been evenly drawn from the traditional major categories of human knowledge: the natural and social sciences and the humanities. Furman, a past president of the American Chemical Society, and Pacsu, one of the world's leaders in the area of starch chemistry, are the scientists; DeWald and Rowley represent the converging fields of European and Far Eastern Art, respectively; Viner, one-time head of the American Economic Association, and Whitton, a frequent lecturer on the faculties of Old World institutions, are analysts of economic and political affairs.

The Lawrenceville-born Furman, an alumnus of the Lawrenceville School and the University, has made major contributions in the broad area of analytical chemistry and over the years has been deeply concerned not only with scientific matters but also with the "broader responsibilities of scientists as citizens." In the same sense Pacsu, a native of Budapest, Hungary, and a World War I officer in the Austro-Hungarian Army, has been associated with the continuing development of the Textile Research Institute as well as with carbohydrate chemistry, the "science or art" of music, and the orientation of Hungarian refugees to American ways of life in the 1950's and 1960's.

DeWald, Director of the Princeton Art Museum since 1947 and a full-time Princetonian for the past 35 years, won three wartime decorations from as many different nations (the United States, Britain and Italy) for his distinguished post-World War II duty with the Allied Fine Arts Commission in Italy. On the other hand, his long-time friend, Rowley, who years ago shifted his interests from Italian Gothic to Chinese Art, is the one scholar credited with working out a systematic analysis of the problems presented by the centuries-long progression of Chinese civilization in art, philosophy and related cultural areas.

Described in 1946 as a "scholar whose interests embrace the whole field of economics," Viner, a product of Canada and for nearly 20 years editor of the "Journal of Political Economy," combines permanent membership in the Institute for Advanced Study with whatever consultative assignments he might wish to undertake. Like Whitton, a pioneer in the broad reaches of international law and also coach of a successful, all-volunteer rugby team, Viner is sought out by visitors from overseas with questions pertaining to teaching, theory and government service.

For providing the kind of quiet, effective leadership that communities seek but seldom find; for strengthening the traditions and reputation of this ever-growing area; for distinguished achievement in their chosen fields of endeavor; these six are our nominees for

THOSE MEN ARE HERE AGAIN

For Annual Reunion Weekend.
The opportunity to celebrate the anniversary of graduation from college is annually expressed by Princeton alumni in widely diverse fashion. Many of them make it a family affair (William F. Riley '35 was bringing his wife and seven children from San Mateo, Calif.), and scores of them "going back" would consider the classroom forums on a variety of topical subjects a highlight of the return to the campus.

Belief in eternal youth was a factor: The Class of 1910, back for its golden anniversary, would boat a crew of eight for a spin on Carnegie's waters. In a neighboring shell, eight other men from the Class of '15 would be at the oars. Average age of the respective boats: 67 and 72 years.

Entertainment promised to be a prime factor, as always. Young and old participating in 1949's 20th could look forward to a performance by a troop of trained elephants, provided appropriately by a member of their class. The circus touch is being furnished by George A. Hamid '40, whose family interests include the Steel Pier in Atlantic City.

Jazz bands will dominate the proceedings in many a headquarters—the best known among them the popular Dukes of Dixieland and the Tigertown Five which Stan Rubin '55 leads. Social events at the teenage and family level include tennis, golf, softball, dances, cocktail parties, wives' and class dinners. For nostalgia's sake, numerous major reunion classes will follow each other in Nassau Hall stepping.

Almost 70 Classes Back. In all, there will be more than 5000
alumni, the oldest from the Class of 1891, the youngest from 1959.
Virtually every one of the 50 states and upwards of a dozen foreign countries (including William C. Trimble '50, Ambassador to Cambodia) will be represented. Rarely will the winner of a "long-distance trophy" have come less than 2000 miles.

Saturday's gala Parade (so spelled and so pronounced in the traditional Princeton vernacular) will wind from Holder Court (where 1935's 25 Year Class is encamped) down Nassau Street to Nassau Hall, thence to University Field. When its gailycostumed alumni (cowboys, clowns, Swiss mountaineers, firemen, Scottish Highlanders) trek through picturesque Thompson Gate at University Field, it will be for the last time in Princeton history. (For an illustrated report on "The End of an Era," see Sports in Princeton, page 23.)

QUARTER-CENTURY REPORT

'35 Says It with Statistics. In sharp contrast to the Class of 1960, many of whose members are literally recruited by highly competitive personnel officers, 1935 went into the world a quarter-century ago to feel the whiplash of a fading but still-present depression. A man who landed a good-paying job made $25 a week; many more settled for $20 and even $17.50. Some didn't make it at all.

In its 25-Year Record, edited largely by Princeton resident Douglas E. Stuart and published to coincide with its upcoming reunion), 1935's members have provided a myriad of miscellaneous, often intriguing statistics. In highly accurate fashion—better than 75 percent of the 545 members queried replied to the comprehensive questionnaire—the facts and figures reflect a quarter-century of American life after college.

Incidental Intelligence. Despite an average gain in weight of 18 pounds in 25 years, the scales balance out at no more than 172 per man. One in eight has had some contact with a psychiatrist or psychologist, but a mere two percent report regular use of either tranquilizers or sleeping pills, and a good 75 percent never use them at all.

Family life has been highly successful for most: nine out of ten are married, the average number of children is three, and 71 percent list "family, wife and/or children" as their greatest source of satisfaction. Almost as many report that both their material assets and their state of mind are equal to, or better than, their father's at a comparable age.

Political Report. The Democratic candidates hoping to become White House tenants shortly after the New Year will find little support from these Princetonians, and the tide is running increasingly against them. In keeping with political tradition in the U.S., the Class of '35 has grown more conservative as it has grown older: as seniors, they were 87 percent Republican; in 1960, 72 percent—today, a whopping 81 percent are GOP'ers.

In the business and professional world, as many as a fourth of the class have held the same job for 25 years—and can prove that it pays, since they as a group have a greater earning power than classmates who have held them to two or more positions. Earned income varies widely (from the less than $500 a year reported by four percent to one percent—approximately five men—who listed annual earnings in excess of $100,000.) The median figure (half have incomes higher, half lower) is $20,000, appreciably higher than most 25-year classes have reported.

Random Items. Nine percent of the class has already made it into "Who's Who in America," while a question asking 1935 to name classmates considered most successful in their fields gave top honors to a pair of Princeton residents. They are Donald R. Hamilton, currently Dean of the Graduate College, and Walker W. Stevenson Jr., one of the few men to head the alumni associations of both Princeton and Lawrenceville.

The years since college have brought a tendency to drink somewhat more, smoke somewhat less. For those who wonder how much "more," means in the consumption of alcoholic beverages, the median figure is about two drinks a day. One in six is still a tee-totaler. As for smoking, 25 percent abstained wholly while in college; today, the figure has increased to 40 percent.

Television has invaded all but nine percent of the class homes; favorite magazines range from the most popular to "Antiques,"

ROUND-UP

The seemingly inaccurate census figures for Princeton Borough, reported in detail in TOWN TOPICS two weeks ago, have been formally protested by the governing body. See report from the Mayor, page 18, while civic pride is withstanding the reported loss of 371 persons charged by the Federal government, loss in revenue from various sources can occur to the municipality... the error comes in totals for much of New Jersey and elsewhere in the U.S. were scheduled to be the subject of a report in the current issue of Newsweek, which dispatched a researcher to Princeton last week as a result of the report in TOWN TOPICS.

Three recordings above 80 have been logged by the Weather Bureau for this area since June began, with Sunday producing high humidity to go with the 84 degrees on the thermometer... the long-range forecast for June calls for precipitation above normal and temperature slightly below average... a cow on the Princeton Pike was struck by a Pennsylvania motorist last Saturday about 9 P.M., doing some damage to the car's headlights and front fender but no harm to the wandering four-legged dairy, which is owned by Sewell Updike.

All municipal liquor licenses in Princeton Township have been renewed but the permit for Witherspoon Lodge No. 178, BPOE, is subject to approval following a hearing on an alleged violation of Sunday sales... a public hearing on the proposed sidewalk program for the Township is scheduled for next Wednesday, June 15, at 8:45 in Township Hall... the proposed Township park east of the Shopping Center will benefit in playground equipment to the amount of $280, a gift from the Center Merchants Association.

Location of various class reunion headquarters may be found on posters about town or by telephoning TOWN TOPICS... it was just a year ago that Princeton Township Committee announced it saw no need (with Committee-man William W. Marvel strongly dissenting) for requiring swimming pool owners to build protective fences around their pools... for the story of its reversal of opinion, see page 2.

MORE ADVERTISERS use TOWN TOPICS exclusively than any other paper in Princeton. It costs them less per copy, too.

POOL ORDINANCE PASSED

Twice. To Make Sure, Township Committee passed Monday night, by a vote of 3-2, the controversial swimming pool fencing ordinance. Then, because Committeeman Thomas P. Cook changed his mind about his vote, Committee retraced its steps and passed the ordinance all over again. Final vote: 4-1, with Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman the lone objector.

As the ordinance now stands, owners whose pools are within 500 feet of a neighbor's house must build a four-foot high fence or wall or have a substantial barrier such as a hedge or impenetrable shrub. The encircling fence may be built anywhere on the property (an amendment of Committeeman John Mount's), not necessarily in the immediate vicinity of the pool, and it must be constructed within 90 days of the passage of the ordinance; that is by September 1.

In the beginning, Committee approved an amendment proposed by Mr. Mount which took out the phrase, "other substantial barrier" thereby requiring pool owners to build fences, regardless of how high, thick or thorny a natural barrier might be. In this form, the ordinance was passed, with

JUNE BRIDE AND GROOM: Sixty years ago, on June 6, 1900, Eva Douglas Wise and James P. Barney were married in New York City. On Monday, 60 guests attended a party given by Mrs. Barney's nephew, Hugh Wise, Jr., to celebrate the diamond jubilee. Col. and Mrs. Barney, who live at 61 Westcott Road, have made their home in Princeton ever since he retired from the Army 21 years ago. At the party, Col. Barney, who won the Distinguished Service Medal in 1918, pinned his medal on Mrs. Barney "for 60 years of distinguished service." (Staff Photo)

Committeeman William Marvel, John Mount and Thomas Cook voting "yes". Mayor Fairman and Committeeman Smoyer voting "no".

But then, John Lasley of Cherry Valley Road rose to protest the passage of the ordinance in this form. "Those of us who came to the public hearing objected to the ordinance on aesthetic grounds," he stated, "and by requiring us to build fences, you have simply disregarded everything we said. Why hold a public hearing if you are going to ignore us?"

Cook Reverses His Stand. It was this objection that moved Mr. Cook to change his mind.

"I want to withdraw my 'yes' vote," he announced, "I cannot vote 'yes' unless we put back the 'other substantial barrier'."

After a complex bit of parliamentary foot-work, the ordinance was voted on again. Mr. Cook's arguments, and Mr. Lasley's statement had changed Committeeman Smoyer's mind, and the final vote found everybody on the "yes" side except Mayor Fairman.

"I'm voting 'no' because I think that observation is the key to a child's safety," Mayor Fairman explained. "Fenced pools may give mothers a feeling of false confidence."

Before the first vote, Committee rejected an amendment proposed by Mr. Smoyer which would have required fences only for pools built in the future. Mr. Smoyer said that zoning ordinances, new building codes and similar regulations would not be retroactive and that this ordinance shouldn't be. Mr. Mount said he felt that, if a hazard existed, it was present as much in a present pool as in one not yet built.

Committee Named. A Development Committee has been appointed to seek companies which might like to build in the Township's expanded research area, the governing body announced Monday night. Its members will prepare information about the Township, welcome visitors who might become taxpayers, and act as liaisons with the Planning Board and other public groups in the Township.

James G. Campbell, former Township Committeeman, will serve as chairman. Other members are Ralph S. Mason, president of the Chamber of Commerce; George R. Conner, president of Princeton Bank and Trust; John P. Poe, president of the First National Bank; LeBaron E. Foster, of Opinion Research; C. V. Conlie, formerly with the Greater Philadelphia Industrial Commission; Fred M. Blalock, president of Princeton Municipal Improvement; Samuel A. Stewart, manager of the Princeton Inn and a representative, not yet chosen, from the University. Mayor Fairman, Mr. Mount and Samuel Frothingham, chairman of the Planning Board, will be ex-officio.

"A lot of sewerage," Committee hopes to introduce an ordinance on June 20 to sewer the Gulick Road - Shady Brook area, which the Board of Health regards as a health hazard. . . Brookstone sewer has been given "number one priority" and Committee hopes it can be completed by fall. . . the Board of Health has recommended "number one priority" for the Hillside area when the sewer master plan starts to roll.

"We're going to be doing a lot of sewerage in the next few years," Mayor Fairman commented. "It's the Township's number one problem."

TWO MEN ELECTROCUTED

In Farm Accident. Two men were electrocuted Thursday when the metal blower tube on a silo-filling machine broke and fell against a 2400-volt power line on a farm in West Windsor Township.

Richard Mey, 43, owner of the farm on Old Post Road, and Richard Novakowski, 50, of Clarksville Road, a farm worker, were pronounced dead at 2:40 p.m. by Dr. Leonard M. Barry. Ninety minutes of mouth-to-mouth resuscitation by relays of seven State troopers failed to save the lives of the men. The victims had also been given oxygen by members of the Princeton First Aid Rescue squad.

Mr. Mey is survived by his wife

News Of The THEATRES

"PAPA" OPENS

At Playmill, The Community Players production of "Papa" is All, which opened at the Playmill Friday night, and will run through this Saturday night, represents a great deal of hard and conscientious work in a hopeless cause. The script of this play may have been based on the wood-burning stove at the right of the stage and allowed to flame into nothingness.

"Papa Is All" has been billed as a Pennsylvania Dutch comedy, which it is not, in any sense. Tyrannical fathers can be very amusing on stage, as Clarence Day found to his profit, but it is one thing to be comic about the blustering patriarchs of the Day family, and quite another to be comic about a father who beats his daughter with a bull-whip and punishes his son by pounding the boy's head against a piece of broken crockery. "Papa Autamp" is a pathological figure, not a comic one at all.

Nor is this a genre piece about Pennsylvania Dutch life. It is a caricature of the Mennonite family, deriving its only humor from the inviolate way of the Mennonite with his prepositions and verbs.

After the first act, Pennsylvania Dutch begins to be less amusing than it was on the rise of the curtain, and the audience may wish that some English could here be spoke, nein? (The actors cope with this diction in a highly effective way; the lines must have been extremely difficult to learn.)

The play is devoted throughout to a clash of wills, but the script gives Papa his final come-uppance, not from the strongest will of his antagonists, but from a kind of O. Henry twist to the plot, and the audience is left with the uneasy feeling that most of the problems presented by Papa are unresolved.

Edward Callanan as the club footed tyrant is properly rigid and thunderous. Peter Cook is a good foil, as Jake, the weak son of a true father, but Mr. Cook is hampered by the fact that the author hasn't developed Jake fully as a character.

Esther Usiskin's Emma is pretty and full of fire. Mildred Wasserman overlaps Mrs. Yoder, the garrulous neighbor, and Robert Wren underplays the state trooper.

It is Elaine Battis as the beaten, dominated wife, who carries "Papa" off. With a shrug of eyes, the movements of a cheek muscle or the roll of a sad eye, she conveys the wistful longings and uncertainties of a woman long kept in bondage. Playmill audiences justly gave her the fullest applause of any member of the cast.

Plays like this one and its predecessor, "A Murder Has Been Arranged," make one wonder about the future of Community Players. This summer, University Players will present a very interesting agenda and next fall, McCarter Theater will branch out into an experiment. This is tough competition, and it will not be met by accident.

In a brief essay printed in the "Papa" playbill, one of the found-

Symphony Season Planned

A four-concert series, marking the tenth anniversary of the Princeton Symphony Orchestra, will be presented next season in McCarter Theatre under the baton of Nicholas Hursey.

The first concert, on November 14, will be a memorial to Dr. Charles E. Erdman, one of the founders of the symphony and president of the association for ten years. The program, all Beethoven will feature Edward T. Cone of the Department of Music, Princeton University, as piano soloist.

Subsequent programs will present Annie Fisher, pianist, on February 20; Robert Gerle, violinist, on March 27 and the Princeton High School Chorus on May 15.

Dr. Rudolf Clemen, first vice-president, and Burwell Harrison, treasurer, have asked the Symphony's executive committee to impress upon the Princeton community the need for contributions to support the organization and to meet its increased operating costs.

ers of the organization says, "It is the box-office receipts, and the reviews in the local papers, but this opportunity to create something you want to create, that makes the Community Players Club so important."

Surely in a community like Princeton, there are people with the urge to create better things than "Papa Is All."

SUNDAY SHOWS PLANNED

By University Players. Sunday evening performances have been scheduled for this summer by the University Players as the result of last summer's heavy demand for weekend tickets. "Epitaph for George Dillon" by John Osborne and Anthony Creighton will open the season on June 25. The play will run through July 3 but there will be no performance Monday, June 27.

Roger Graef, Daniel Selznick and David Sawyer will serve as directors for the Players' summer season. Mr. Graef directed the recent television production of "Mandy" and summer productions of Cocteau's "Intimate Relations" with Mildred Dunnekin and "The Moon Is Blue." He has taught at the American Shakespeare Festival at Stratford, Connecticut.

Mr. Selznick has directed productions of "Candida," "Titus Andronicus," "Fiedermaus," "Treen Men on a Horse" and the world premiere of Dylan Thomas' "The Doctor and the Devils." He served as production assistant to Sir Laurence Olivier for "The Tumbler."

David Sawyer produced the 1958 and 1959 seasons for the University Players and directed last summer's "Waiting for Godot." He is co-producer of the off-Broadway production of Samuel Beckett's "Under the Sycamore Tree." He will direct "Epitaph for George Dillon."

University Players has announced that the to-be-announced musical will be "Kiss Me, Kate" to be staged by Milton Lynde and directed, musically, by Richard Cumming.

ing. Dean Martin and Tony Curtis wake up after a long drunk and, because they have been involved in some perilous espionage adventures, deduce that they must be in a Soviet submarine. Their patriotic duty, they decide, is to sink it, so they begin opening the mazes of water pipes and flooding the area. Finally, with the water rising around their waists and tears flowing from their eyes, they lock arms and face heroes' deaths bravely, singing "America the Beautiful."

This is the climactic scene of Norman Krasna's very funny picture, adapted into screen short-hand from his Broadway play, "Who Was That Lady I Saw You With?" Curtis, improbably cast as an associate professor of chemistry at Columbia University, is observed by his wife (Janet Leigh) while kissing a Redstone undergraduate. To help his friend out of this marital dilemma, Martin makes up the story that Curtis is a secret FBI agent and the kiss was part of his rigorous work as a counterespionage. This mollifies Miss Leigh, but leads to complications when Martin begins spreading the yarn as a joke. Soon the pair are involved with real-life spies and their unwilling service to the FBI leads through a kidnapping, a funny scene in a Chinese restaurant and finally to the depths of the Empire State Building. It is pure and vastly entertaining farce, and Krasna's screenplay is frequently hilarious.

The focus of the action is around Martin, about whom there are two schools of thought. We lean to the review that he is rapidly placing himself among the first rank of screen comedians. Recommended.

Please Don't Eat the Daisies (June 12-18) is adapted from the book of the same name by Jean Kerr about the tribulations of being married to a famous theatre critic. Miss Kerr, in real life, is the wife of Walter Kerr, famous theatre critic. David Niven is an Academy Award-winning actor who is urbane and funny in almost anything he does. Doris Day is a little girl of 38 with blonde curls and freckles.

In this movie Doris Day pretends to be Jean Kerr, but we know she's Doris Day all the time, don't we? But that's all right, since this isn't exactly what you'd call a movie with a plot. It's more of a friendly romp with the Day and the Nivens and their four precious cutie-dorable little children. And Janice Pennington is the bad old sexy star who tries to seduce Daddy when he gives her a bad review. Aunt Janice isn't too bright.

Some of the sharp wit that made Mrs. Kerr's book more than an elongated "Most Unforgettable Character I've Ever Met" is rejoined in the film, but not too much. Still, Niven is good and Miss Day is present and there are a lot of funny jokes for stogie married couples. The film is in CinemaScope and color.

THE GARDEN

Operation Petticoat (June 6-11), which appeared with great success at the Playhouse in January, provides a severe test of our faith in the notion that Cary Grant can do no wrong. The screenplay, written by Stanley Sheapiro and Maurice Richlin, is largely unfunny nonsense about a crippled submarine which is boarded by a group of improbably endowed Army nurses during World War II. In addition to Grant, the perpetrators include Dina Merrill, Joan O'Brien and Tony Curtis, who was better illustrating Grant in "Some Like It Hot" than he is co-starring with him in this one.

Grant is the skipper of the sub, while Curtis, his brash young supply officer, spends a lot of footage gathering supplies in violation of service regulations. After about 50 or 60 aged submarine jokes (many of which are authenticated by their locker-room taste level), Curtis rescues the nurses from a target area and ennuil breaks loose. "You can't have women on a submarine," observes Grant with more truth than he knows, but there, he is forced to recognize, they are. This provides an opportunity for scenes involving the love-starved sailors trying to get near the new arrivals, and if you've seen enough movies to qualify as an occasional filmpoet you should be able to shout about 40 percent of the lines in advance.

The Greatest Show on Earth (June 13-18) is Cecil B. DeMille's 1952 attempt to prove that John

Wet and Inexpensive. The Pool

(right) hand side, going from Princeton to Trenton, just beyond everything but water-bugs, for people who are water bugs. Pools, floats, deck chairs, filters and buoys come mix and match, and you can pick and choose and carry home anything that fits your wallet and your backyard.

In fact, you may have the biggest pool on the lot — a 28-foot ("no, darling—across, not deep") above-ground pool with filter, surface skimmer, vacuum chemicals and installation for less than $900.
It's 3 1/2 feet deep with an eight-foot-deep diving area.

This, incidentally, is a pool which you take home in the back of the station wagon. "Anyone, inexperienced or experienced, can put this pool up," says the Pool and Pond men. All it takes is a partner to help. You can also take it down, when autumn comes, or simply leave it up for 1961.

Smaller pools are cheaper. For example, a 12-foot above-ground pool is $49. Or you may have a ten-foot wide, two-foot deep pool for $39.95.

A new portable filter at $99.50 has a capacity of 20,000 gallons. It contains neither sand, nor gravel nor distasteful earth, but uses instead the same kind of filter you find in a car. When dirt collects, you wash it off and begin again,
just as you do with dirty little boys.

Favorite pool accessories at Pool and Pond are fiberglass chairs

Ringling North was a piker. The cast includes, among others, Betty Hutton, Cornel Wilde, Charlton Heston, Dorothy Lamour, Gloria Grahame, Henry Wilcoxon, James Stewart, Lawrence Tierney, Emmett Kelly and animals and animals and animals.

It's always merciful when dealing with circus pictures to avoid talking about the plot. Since we are in no mood to have our credentials as a gentleman tampered with, suffice it to say that there is a fire, a sequence where the animals get loose and a train wreck, during which a previously unassuming clown distinguishes himself for heroism. In addition, of course, there are interminable high wire acts and other hazardous activities. The film features six or eight songs, none of which you will remember, even if you saw it in 1952.

In addition to the enormous number of principals, the cast includes troops of extras DeMulling all over the place. The picture is in Technicolor.

The second preoccupation at Thorne's these days is the problem of keeping the customers cool after they leave the air-conditioning. To this end they are offering such liquid balms as Houbigant's Refreshance Cologne at $1.50 for a $2.50 bottle, and Yardley's After-Bath Freshener at $2 for a $3.50 bottle.

Matchabelli sends you into a Summer Shower of cologne, stick deodorant, creme sachet and spray-mist cologne, $1 each. (You'll like the aqua dusting puff.)

Carven offers its essence pour le bain, and its cologne in Robe d'un Soir. Ma Gracie's Enchante comes in Flamingo, Ovation, Contraband and Safari, which sound pretty hot to us.

There are colognes, dusting powders, after-bath lotion, spray mist and a bubble bath to make you feel like champagne.

Dana says "boo!" with its Am-bush. Lanvin offers Traveler for people on the go in My Sin or Ar-pegge. Max Factor has made round compacts to match those oval lip-stick holders he presented a few months ago. They come in pastels with gold leaf designs.

Riviera by Coty is a twin lip-stick case for $2.25, and you may put into it, of all things, two lip-sticks.

Holinsprays' atomizers at $1 are so inexpensive that you can buy one for each cologne on your shelf. They are clear glass globes or squashed pyramids, reduced from $2.

Here She Comes. Brides are with us, one way and another, for most of the year, but they seem to proliferate in June. Because of this, Preston's Bridal Salon in Trenton, issues a special invitation to wedding belles to come down and have a look.

To this shop, 30 Parkside Avenue, you will find hundreds of bridal gowns to choose from. Some of them are one-of-a-kind originals or designer samples. Others come from standard collections, so as you can see, there are gowns to slip easily into any wedding budget.

Each bridal party receives individual attention and the bride makes a special appointment in advance (EXPort 2-6060). The salon also carries bridesmaid's dresses, hats and veils, so that the entire wedding party can be dressed all in one spot, so to speak.

There are also more than 30 special foundation garments which will slim down the plump peach, or put a curve here and there on the string bean. And special hoops which can add the right proportion to a girl who may be too tall, too short or too thin.

Mrs. Preston, who presides over the salon, also offers advice on wedding etiquette, traditions, superstitions and son. She has even been known to offer advice on that inconsequential matter—what will the groom wear?

Today's brides are younger, Mrs. Preston says. This means fabrics like silk organza, ace or tulle, rather than formal satins. Eighteen-year-olds who are getting married would rather die than look like some old hag of 24.

PCD GRADUATES 13

Two Staff Members Honored. George L. Nicholas, who is retiring this year from Princeton Country Day School, and Robert N. Smyth, who has completed his 25th year at the school, were honored Monday at the 36th annual commencement exercises held in the school gymnasium.

Ten students received awards at the graduation ceremonies. Karl Pettit, III, received the Headmaster's Cup, given to the senior who has rendered "the highest service by leadership based on character." John Brinknerhoff and John Odden shared the Faculty Cup for "Manhood, Learning, Gentleness."

The award to the best all-around athlete went to William Smoyer and the VI Form award for endeavor and improvement to Brock Putnam. II. Henry Jandi received the V Form award for high general average and outstanding contributions to the school.

John F. McCarthy, III received the Upper School Scholarship

"YOU'LL GO A LONG WAY, YOUNG MAN." Madame Olga Zorzo (better known as actress Georgine Hall) tells bank president George Cook at Saturday's Hospital Fete that she foresees a successful future for him. (TOWN TOPICS Picture by Alan Richards.)

Cup and Richard Reynolds won the Form V award for endeavor and improvement. The Lower School Scholarship Cup went to David H. Blair, III. Joseph S. Wandell received the Lance Raymond Shield, a memorial award. Edward T. Hall, headmaster of The Hill School, delivered the address to the graduating class and Richard W. Baker, chairman of the Board of Trustees, gave the introduction to the graduating ceremonies.

HOSPITAL FETE A SUCCESS

Despite Weather, Intermittent rain proved to be no deterrent to the seventh annual Princeton Hospital Fete held Saturday. Preliminary estimates indicate that proceeds will exceed those of last year and, when the tickets for the Ford Thunderbird traffic are included, the result will be the best on record.

Robert Dougherty of 96 Library Place won the Thunderbird which was raffled at the event. Most spectacular purchase in the Collector's Auction was the fully-furnished houseboat bought by Robert Bell of Pennington for $375 as a playhouse for his four children. Mr. Bell is president of the Princeton firm, On Film, Inc.

Children, the chief beneficiaries of the Fete, jammed the entertainment tent to see the puppet antics created by Paul and Mary Ritt, Princeton residents who are the stars of the "Hi Mom" television program. Movies and games were well-attended by the small fry and even the rides received a steady flow of patronage in spite of the rain.

There was a tie for first place in the Beauty Contest category of "Princeton's prettiest girl" between Mrs. Hugh Samson of Lawrenceville-Princeton Road and Mrs. William H. Sayen, IV of 167 Edgeroune Road. Mrs. Roy S. Coppedge, Jr. won second place. Winners in the "Handsome man" category were 11-year old Copey Coppedge, first, with Gilbert Lea of Province Line Road, runner-up.

Help for Chile

Agencies in Princeton are coordinating their activities in order to help the 2,000,000 victims of the Chilean earthquakes, and Princeton residents who would like to help may send money to the American Red Cross or to their churches.

The Princeton Chapter of the Red Cross points out that the best way to help is to congregate, and Chile is 5,000 miles away. It would take too long to collect, pack and ship donations, but with money, supplies can be bought nearby and distributed promptly in areas where the need is greatest.

Captain G. E. Sage, chairman of Disaster Services of the Princeton Chapter of the American Red Cross, and the Rev. David Crawford, President of the Pastors' Association, will co-ordinate the work of Princeton agencies.

ACCEPTS CALL

New Pastor for Lawrenceville. The Rev. H. Dana Fearon III has accepted a call to the Lawrenceville Presbyterian Church. He is presently assistant pastor of Central Presbyterian Church, Rochester, N. Y.

The new pastor will be honored this Sunday by the deacons of the Lawrenceville Church. His installation will take place in early August, when he will assume his new duties.

As the 15th pastor of the 260-year old church, the Rev. Mr. Fearon succeeds the Rev. M. Allen Kimble, who resigned the pastorate last October to accept a call to Wyncote, Pa. The new pastor received his Bachelor of Divinity degree in May, 1967, from the Union Theological Seminary, New York. In Rochester, he has served on the Committee of Christian Education of the Rochester Presbytery and has been active in YMCA work.

Serving on the committee which selected the new pastor were Miss Joanne Bussom, Charles Clowes, Stephen Conger, Mrs. Charles Hultsh Sr., Herbert Kale, Mrs. Paul McKee, Russell Park Jr., Melville Pearce, David Penrose, Mrs. Harry H. Pratt, Mrs. Rob-

"It can't be done" . . .

"Not in Mercer County, anyway."

"What is it — — — a Doghouse!" . . .

We're used to this kind of comment at The Building Center and frankly with the current high cost of building in this area we don't blame people for doubting that it can be done.

Here's how these $9950.00 - $20,000.00 "Emblem" Homes can be built.

FIRST—IS DESIGN. These homes (like the Compact 1960 cars) utilize every inch of space very efficiently. Plumbing and heating layouts are concentrated, waste hall space is at a minimum and big closets give you storage where you need it.

SECOND—IS CONSTRUCTION. Use of component parts like Pre-finished Long Bell Kitchen Cabinets, Anderson Strut Wall Window Units and pre-assembled storage walls speed up and simplify construction.

THIRD—IS MATERIALS. By careful specification of materials best suited for a certain type and size of house we hold down the cost of all building materials and equipment.

FOURTH—IS D.I.Y. ("DO-IT-YOURSELF"). Buying your own plot, doing your own painting, seeing, are jobs that are easy to do yourself—and you save plenty of money.

REJECTS ANY "K" INFLUENCE IN NOVEMBER: Archie Lummis feels that the American voters will ignore any implied statements by Khrushchev that he prefers to deal with a Democratic president, and, vote for "whomever they prefer." Others say that Khrushchev's sentiments will play a role in the November election.

Question of the Week

Question: Khrushchev has implied strongly that he feels a Democratic President of the United States will be a requirement toward a successful summit meeting. Do you feel this will play a part in the November election?

Where asked: Public Library.

Albert Sonnenfeld, 512 Ewing Street, assistant professor of Romance Languages at the University: I think Nixon will use Khrushchev's statement by implying, as he did in '52 and '56, that the Democrats are soft on communism. Khrushchev obviously wants to deal with the Democrats. Nixon'll say, because he knows he'll be able to get what he wants from them. This is not my personal feeling—just think Nixon will say this.

Mrs. Rosa Rosenthal, 43 Jefferson Road, professional assistant at ETS: I hate to think that anything Khrushchev would want would dictate what the American voter would do. But, contrary to K's opinion, I think that if the American voter wants to take a stand against Khrushchev, and our previous foreign policy which has made Khrushchev so cocky, then they would be advised to elect a strong Democratic president.

Archie Lummis, Mercer Road, officer, First National Bank: No, I don't think the American people will be inclined to vote for whomever they prefer. I myself, believe that the foreign intimidation practiced by Khrushchev will favor the Republicans more than the Democrats. I feel that if someone is going to tell you what to do, your reaction will be the opposite.

Mrs. W. Hollis Tegardeo, 46 Markham Road, housewife: Yes, I definitely do. Khrushchev is unwilling to compromise or negotiate until the election is over. I think it is safe to say that the policy of the new president will determine the Russian stand. Whether or not Khrushchev is using the election as a "trial" is hard to say. Who knows?

Robert Weber, 422 Butler Avenue, graduate student in psychology: I think it may play a part but I don't feel it will be one of the key issues. I believe the election will be fought on the grounds of internal questions and personalities.

Mrs. Robert Clifford, 132 Patton Avenue, housewife: I think the failure of the summit conference and our handling of the U-2 incident will have more influence on the voters in November than anything Khrushchev has to say. In the last analysis, it will depend on who is running for president.

David L. Crawford, 231 Riverside Drive, pastor of Second Presbyterian Church: I trust that Khrushchev's statements will be regarded neither favorably or unfavorably. I'd hate to think that this would work to the disadvantage of a Democratic candidate because I feel it doesn't have anything to do with the campaign, which must be waged in terms of internal aspects but not with Khrushchev's suggestions in mind.

Mrs. Louise N. Darke, 61 Laurel Road, office secretary for Princeton United Community Fund: I think that most people will feel that Khrushchev doesn't have a good comprehension of what democracy is and how we interpret it. I can't feel Khrushchev's opinions will be taken seriously.

John Feao, Brunswick Pike, mechanical engineering instructor at the University: I suspect that it will and that his statement may produce some reverse English. It seems quite possible that the American people will react and accomplish the opposite of what he wants by electing a Republican.

Mrs. Albert Stokes, R.D. 1, University Press secretary: No, I don't, because I think Khrushchev is talking to hear himself—as usual.

Charles Long, 15 Little Hall, University student: I don't think his sentiments should play a part in the November election nor do I think Khrushchev really means what he says. He doesn't want to have a successful summit meeting. What his motives are I don't know—he may want a Democratic president because he may be more afraid of Nixon than he is of Kennedy.

Mrs. Jack Winters, 22 Madison Street, housewife: No, I don't think so. I don't believe the people in this country have enough respect for his word one way or the other to permit him to have any influence on their vote. I feel the American voter trusts himself more than he does Khrushchev, and that he'll vote according to his own judgment on other issues.

Mrs. Mary Klink, 35 Erdman Avenue, housewife: I don't think that anything Khrushchev says or anything anybody might say is going to help the Democrats. I feel it will be all Republican in November because the people in this country are too prejudiced to elect the man who deserves to be elected.

J. Douglas Brown, Dean's House, Dean of the Faculty, Princeton University: No, because I feel the American people have sense not to let Khrushchev determine their decisions on national policy.

Mrs. Charles Place, 133 Winant Road, housewife: Yes, I do. I think the Democrats' chances for winning the election have been improved both by Khrushchev's statement and by the world events that have taken place in the last few weeks. The whole U-2 incident, in my opinion, has weakened us.

Karl Zapf, Jr., 1 Madison Street, assistant librarian at Food Machinery Corporation: I don't think it will make any difference one way or the other. The people are going to vote for the individual and not on the basis of any statement Khrushchev may have made.

The detection system thus keeps cars automatically at a safe distance behind those ahead, and causes cars to stop when there is an obstruction or a parked vehicle in the lane ahead.

SCIENCE In Princeton

CARS WITHOUT DRIVERS

On Electronic Highway, if the efforts of engineers and scientists at General Motors and RCA prevail, motorists of the future will be able to get in a hand off bridge or take a nap on Dat weekend drive to the cabin.

On a special test track at RCA's David Sarnoff Research Center, representatives from RCA and General Motors demonstrated the world's first "electronic highway," a roadway in which specially outfitted standard cars are started, accelerated, steered and stopped—all by electronics. The electronic highway includes two basic systems: a detection system designed to make known the presence of any car or truck on the highway by means of electronic circuits buried along the road, and a guidance system that will automatically steer specially-equipped cars.

The detection system consists of a rectangular wire loop, slightly less than car-length, placed one after another along the length of the road and spaced closely enough so that a car is always partly over at least one loop. To each loop is connected a transistorized detection device.

The presence of a car over a loop sets off a signal in the road-side detector which is then fed into a network connecting all of the detector units. The resulting signal extends behind the car, becoming weaker at each succeeding detector.

This signal behind each moving vehicle forms an electronic "following tail" that can be used to operate a chain of lights along the edge of the road as a visible warning to following automobiles. In a fully-developed system, this flying tail of signals is picked up by special receiving and control equipment which in turn operates the car's brakes and accelerator.

The guidance system consists of a single, continuous cable buried in the pavement in the center of the traffic lane. A signal current in this cable picked up by two coils mounted at the front end of the car and equidistant from the guidance cable. If the car moves in either direction away from the center of the lane, the signal becomes stronger in one coil than in the other, generating a "difference signal" that can be used either to warn the driver by lights or by an audible signal, or to operate the steering gear automatically.

Actual Use in 1970? Officials at both RCA and GM were quick to point out that it will be many years (probably 15) before a nationwide, fully-automatic driving system is a reality. Immediate practical applications of the detection system in which cars would not have to carry any special equipment would include the operation of lights at intersections or along dangerous stretches of road, the measurement of car speed and automatic display of warning to drivers who exceed any of the wide range of limits for which circuits may be set; the counting of vehicles, and the adjusting of signals to insure a maximum flow of traffic.

The concept for an electronic highway was originally conceived in 1953 by Dr. Vladimir K. Zworykin, honorary vice-president of RCA. Last May, in Washington, D.C., a miniature working model of an electronic highway was demonstrated by the General Motors Research Laboratories. In addition, the Nebraska State Highway Department, in cooperation with RCA, demonstrated in late 1957 a full-scale installation of roadway circuits representing an earlier stage in the development of the electronic system.

Report from THE MAYOR

Census Check Planned. The Borough Council has voted to request the Federal census officials to review the count in Princeton Borough.

The decision was taken after consideration was given to a number of facts: careful estimates by Borough officials and by our consultant planner, F. Dodd McHugh, were substantially higher than the Federal count; many persons have reported to Borough Hall that they were missed by the interviewers; the staff head of the local census was separated from his responsibilities before the project's completion; and a Federal staff aide had indicated a willingness to review the Princeton tabulation based on a concern for special problems encountered here.

Much At Stake. Having an accurate count is very important to Borough residents over the next decade. For one thing, state aid applied on a per capita basis is usually geared to census figures.

Library funds would be one example of a potential loss through an inaccurate population figure. If you were missed in the census, it would be helpful if you would call Borough Hall. This information could be presented to the Federal officials in support of Council's request.

Assent On Planning. The future of Princeton remains a high priority on the attention of Borough officials and staff. Last week the Mayor visited the New York office of our consultant planners to discuss some long-range problems and to review some of the findings and preliminary recommendations of the planners.

This week's meeting of the Planning Board will find more of the key decisions being hammered out in connection with the updating of the master plan. For discussion purposes, Mr. McHugh has prepared memoranda on his study of community capacity and resident population accommodated by the proposed land-use plan.

Members of Borough Council have been urged to sit in with the Planning Board at these significant meetings. Ultimately they will have to pass upon the changes. Their views are helpful in shaping the final plans.

United Nations Day. President Eisenhower has issued a proclamation urging "the citizens of this Nation to observe Monday, October 24, 1960, as United Nations Day by means of community programs which will demonstrate their faith in and support of the United Nations and contribute to a better understanding of its aims, problems, and achievements."

Mayors have been urged to appoint a chairman and representative committee now to formulate plans for appropriate observance of the UN's fifteenth anniversary. Because of Princeton's great interest in world affairs and because of the concern we all feel in these troubled, historic days, it is hoped that interested men and women will be willing to devote some time during the coming months to this worthwhile endeavor.

Thursday Open House. The regular weekly "Tell it to the Mayor" sessions are scheduled for Thursday, June 9 and Thursday, June 16, from 7 to 10 p.m. at Borough Hall. No appointment is ever necessary for these informal meetings.

Another highlight of last week's calendar was the opportunity to welcome a large group of distinguished representatives to the United Nations from nations around the world. Two visitors mentioned "your exceptionally clean streets"—without knowing the painful decision-making that preceded the most recent sweeping efforts, using first a borrowed Mercer County machine and then with the Borough's own sweeper repaired and very much back on the job.

Objects to Catholics' Cadillac.

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

I question the propriety of the raffle prize currently offered by one of Princeton's religious centers.

Rather than a shiny white Cadillac, a deep freezer, a fur coat, or some other material gimmick, the winner of the raffle institution dedicated to the Testaments and not the treasury couldn't offer instead—a grant in aid of tuition to any religious or Sunday School for any three children of the winner's choice, or a large cash donation to the winner's choice of charity, or a cash grant toward a visit to a religious shrine, holy place or the Holy Land. Other prizes might include tickets for Holy Day attendance and or subscribed select pews; subscriptions to religious publications; paid-up membership in church organizations and paid-up admission to projected church functions, and the like.

The details, of course, are nowhere as important as the general argument that Agencies of God should promote instruments of God, in preference to those of the market-place.

ARTHER B. SHOSTAK
223 C-Eisenhower St.

Says Her Ticket Unloaded.

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

As an English emigrant nurse new to Princeton two and half years ago, I was told that the corner of Tulane and Nassau had a 15-minute parking zone on the yellow lines. As I had learned that those lines meant "only for unloading," I inquired of a police officer.

He told me that it was allowed to park there for 15 minutes. So, in all good faith I have parked there off and on since then.

But last week, after leaving my car there for less than ten minutes, I found a ticket for illegal parking on my windshield. Naturally I was upset, and later, seeing a traffic officer at the corner of University Place, I inquired from him whether it was permitted to park at the corner of Tulane and Nassau.

I got the same reply I had two and a half years previously. Yes, but only for 15 minutes.

So, indignantly, I went to the Traffic Bureau on Stockton with my parking ticket and explained the situation. The only reply I got was, "It was illegal parking" and I had to pay the fine. Now, it is the $2 that hurts me, but I consider it very unjust. After all, it's commonly known as a 15-minute parking area and if one inquires from a police officer and he affirms it, surely one can accept it as a fact.

I hope you will print my letter, so that other misguided Princetonians can be spared a parking ticket. Thank you.

"Stevenson Alone . . ."

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

The recent surge of popular interest in the presidential candidacy of Adlai E. Stevenson is heartening and decisive. It will be noted in the history books as the outward and visible sign of the determination of the people to make their will felt in the coming Democratic Convention and to persuade the professional politician that voters really prefer the voice of wisdom and eloquence to all other voices in this time of national danger.

Of the candidates now seeking to become our 35th president, Stevenson alone is fully qualified by the richness of his political experience, by the excellence of his reputation with the American voter, and by the attractiveness of his vision of our national purposes and destiny. Let us test by these standards the men who would rival him. If the measurements we use are not distorted by the prisms of partisanship, Stevenson's candidacy will prove itself worthy of our support and worthy of the nation we love.

BUSINESS In Princeton

NEW MARKETING DIRECTOR
At Applied Data Research,
Charles L. Ricker has been appointed to the newly-created post of Director of Marketing at Applied Data Research, Inc. He will aid the computer programming and consulting firm with the development of its marketing, planning and sales programs.

Mr. Ricker comes to Princeton from the Burroughs Corporation, where he was part of the computer marketing-management team. He estimates that the market for services in this field has grown to its present annual volume of $12 million in its first five years.

Since ADR began for business
last September on State Road 206, it has doubled its staff of programmers. Added have been Robert Christensen of Hopewell,
William Cava of Kendall Park,
Robert Thaler of Lawrenceville,
Lawrence Dorf of Nassau Estates and Ernest Firon of Lawrenceville.
It plans to continue its expansion by at least 300 percent in the next 15 months.

VAN NOSTRAND EXPANDS
Converts Warehouse to Office.
D. Van Nostrand, Princeton-based book publishing firm, has rebuilt a warehouse at 128 Alexander Street to give an additional 7200 square feet of office space. It will occupy the building before July 1, according to Ernest Sieglar, controller.

The former warehouse, which is next to the firm's headquarters at 120 Alexander Street, was previously occupied by the Springdale Warehouse Corporation, a wholly-owned subsidiary of Van Nostrand which handles distribution of its books. Springdale moved to a new, 21,000 square foot warehouse in West Windsor last December, freeing the building at 128 Alexander Street.

The new office space will house the company's accounting and general services departments.
Eventually, Van Nostrand plans to add a second story to the building to further expand its office area.

Both the move of Springdale to West Windsor and the conversion of the old warehouse are part of the general expansion which has occurred since the century-old firm, which is known for its scientific and educational books, moved to New York from Princeton in 1955. Since then, its staff has increased by about a third, going from 120 to 160, and has "completely outgrown" the original quarters at 128 Alexander, according to Mr. Sieglar.

PRESS PLANS EXPANSION
In West Windsor, Princeton Polychrome Press is planning to build a 15,000 square-foot offset printing plant in West Windsor Township to handle its expanded business. The firm has purchased a four-acre plot and hopes to have the building ready by early next year.
Princeton Polychrome, which was founded in 1953, specializes in high quality offset color printing. The new plant would provide more than twice the space

it presently has at 8 Charlton

END OF AN ERA
Last Game At University Field. Saturday's Yale-Princeton baseball game will close out the 94-year career of University Field as one of Princeton's major athletic areas. The stands and diamond will be demolished this summer to make way for the new engineering quadrangle. The field, which was purchased for the Baseball Association in 1876-77, has always been used by the Tigers' varsity nines. Also the scene of freshman football and varsity lacrosse games. It has also been used for varsity football, rugby, track and freshman baseball.

According to "Athletics at Princeton, A History," by Frank Presbrey '79 and James Moffatt '00, purchase of the field was precipitated by a notice to the Baseball Association in 1876 that it could not continue to use the privately-owned grounds between Chambers Street and Bayard Lane. The Association went to work to obtain what is now University Field.

After an unsuccessful appeal to the alumni, it turned to the University Hotel Company. The chairman of the committee of the Association, who happened to be a director of the Hotel, "purchased the board to purchase a large tract of land where the present University Field is, for a truck farm or vegetable garden, and then proposed that they permit the students to use half the plot and rent the garden to them."

Although the enterprising chairman of the committee, Wil-

Ceremony Planned

A brief ceremony before the Yale-Princeton baseball game Saturday will mark the fact that it will be the last contest played on University Field. All baseball lettermen marching in the parade will be asked to drop out of line at the Princeton dugout, and when they are fully assembled, a group picture will be taken. Two former baseball players will participate in the ceremony. William A. Kirkland '19, a star pitcher while in college and now a University trustee, will speak briefly on the public address system, while the first ball will be thrown out by W. Randolph Sides '09, oldest captain expected to be present.

liam Libbey Jr., '71, ended up supplying most of the money himself, the field was bought in the name of the Hotel and leased to the Association. A dozen years later, the property was transferred to the Trustees of the University.

Some $13,000 was spent on conditioning the original 16-acre plot, which included all of the present field except for a narrow street along Prospect Avenue. "A quarter-mile track was built around the field," the "History of Athletics" relates, "and a baseball diamond was carefully marked out, with the home-plate in the southeast corner, so that the balls were batted toward the entrance. In the southeast corner was a small but comfortable clubhouse. . . . Adjoining this was built the "large" roofed grand stand capable of seating 250 persons, which was then considered a large crowd of spectators."

Diamond Moved. Although the field was repaired and the grandstand shifted in 1885, the first major change came in 1890 when the diamond was moved to put home plate in the northeast corner, where it presently is. Also, new bleachers, a 1/2 mile track and a large covered wooden grandstand were added then. About the same time, the adjoining lot on Prospect was bought, the Osborn field house donated, and the large brick "cage," which now serves as a dressing room, built (after an earlier wooden cage blew down). In 1896, the portion of the field next to Prospect was graded to provide space for Princeton baseball and football, and in the fall of 1900 a permanent grandstand was added for the Yale football game.

Football games were played on the field until the completion of Palmer Stadium in 1914. The gridiron ran north and south, with one goal line along what is now the first base line.

Next year, the varsity nine will play on a new field next to Palmer Stadium. The University Field House and lighted football practice fields will remain in use until the new dressing and practice facilities are completed, while Osborn Field House will continue to be used by varsity teams until longer-range plans are completed.

35TH GAME WITH YALE

And Last in This Setting. Memories of other stirring games played with Yale against the colorful setting of gaily-colored alumni will flicker across University Field Saturday for many baseball fans. The contest will be the 35th in the series that began in far-off 1867 and has seen the Tigers win 97, tie three and lose 134.

Best of the shortstops in the modern (post-World War I) era was Moe Berg '23, who went on to a fine career in the American League as a catcher. Other Tiger standouts of that decade were Charlie Townsend, Art Carney and Charlie Caldwell, a trio of great pitchers; Waddy McPhee, Jim Boechecker and Tom Dignan, hard-hitting infielders; and the Strubing brothers, Ken and Phil, who patrolled the outfield.

The decade of the '30's was a lean one for Princeton baseball, but was marked by a shutout victory over the Elis in 1933 credited to a player whose primary sport was track. Don Johnson was a topflight sprinter and track captain for Matty Gels but when the season ended, he went to University Field to see if he could alleviate the acute pitcher shortage.

Johnson could and did, hurling a dramatic 2-0 triumph over a strong Eli nine. Three years later, a ninth-inning uprising that accounted for seven runs gave another in-and-out Princeton team a last-ditch victory over a Yale outfit whose first baseman was Larry Kelley.

Roy Talcott and John Elde, two of the best Princeton pitchers of all time, helped make the early years of the '40's bright for Princeton, the Tigers winning the Eastern League championship in 1941 and repeating the following year with a fine 11-1 mark. Captain of that team was Bill MacCoy, one of the best catchers the Tigers ever had, and winner of the league batting title with a .451 .452. MacCoy was killed shortly thereafter in a plane crash while training to become a pilot. The tragedy erasing a probable major league career.

Returning to Princeton to coach football and baseball in 1945, Charlie Caldwell won the league title for the Tigers in his first spring. Four years later, Emerson Dickman was at the helm as the Orange and Black finish first three years running, largely on the strength of fine pitching from Bob Walcott, Ray Chirugi, Harry Brightman and Dave Sisler.

Will Prior and Jim Fairchild were others who signed professional contracts, as Sisler did, after helping the Tigers win league titles. In '53, Eddie Donovan steered Princeton to a championship in his first season, Dick Emery contributing several clutch pitching performances.

Leaver years have followed at University Field, although the Tigers have largely been able to dominate Yale in recent seasons. The 1960 team, captained by Mike Ippolito, will be aiming to close the University Field era with a victory over the Blue — and to avenge the 8-1 beating inflicted by the Eds last Saturday at New Haven.

It was poor fielding that sent that game down the drain early. Yale shoving seven runs across the plate in the first inning, all of them unearned, Wally Phillips was the victim as the Tigers were held to a pair of lone hits by Stu Beattie and barely averted a shut-out by bashing a run around on two walks and a pair of force plays.

Southpaw Dave Douglas, a senior who has been unpredictable this season but who has a no-hit-ter against Manhattan to his credit, will pitch for Princeton. Douglas, Ippolito and right fielder Ken Murray are the only seniors in the Tigers' starting lineup. The probable batting order for Princeton: 1b: Myslisk, 2b: Jack Whitehouse, 3b: Bill MacMillan, 4b: Mike Ippolito, 5b: Ken Murray, 6b: Elmer Naples, c: Mike Devine, cf: Bill Karjane or Don Marquet, 7b: Dave Douglas, p.

PHS NINE IN FINALS
Sevens Group III title Friday. A shot at the State Group III baseball title in the Central New Jersey district awaits Princeton High School Friday. The well-balanced Blue and White nine will play on the Peddie School diamond at Hightstown at 4 o'clock, facing the winner of the Lakewood - South River game played earlier this week.

On the mound for Coach Harry Zoll's operatives will be Jack Lackey, who takes a sparkling 7-1 record into the game. Included in his string of triumphs are victories in both playoff games which have served to put the Little Tigers in the finals of their first post-season tournament.

A ten-inning, 2-1 triumph over a good Sayreville team came Princeton High's way last Thursday to land PHS in the finals. Archie Freeman's two-out, full-count single broke up the deadlock to give Lackey and his mates the overtime triumph.

Freeman, together with Dick Olsen, had three hits on the day, and his sixth-inning safety played a part in the rout that brought the Blue and White even. Sayreville pushed its lone rally around in the fourth, the runner crossing the plate on a missed third strike charged to catcher Ed King.

Lackey fanned 14 and scattered four hits in winning his sixth in a row. Friday's game is a prime target for Zoll and his players.

PHS DEFEATS LONG BRANCH
In Dual Meet Finale. In its final dual meet of the season, against Long Branch last Wednesday, Coach Win Niles' Blue and White cindermen walloped the visitors, 8-33. It was the Little Tigers' sixth win in eight dual meets this year.

Once again, Co-captain Lamont Fletcher paced the victors by taking first place in both the low and high hurdles. Jerry Cypress captured first place in the 220. Dave Kilgour in the quarter mile and Steve Sciobetta in the 100-yard dash. Ridge Applegate and Howard Gould paced the victors in —Continued on Page 25

MOVE UP TO 1960's OILHEAT

AND SAVE UP TO

25%

ON HEATING BILLS

1960's OILHEAT—the result of intensive research in the 1950's—has been proved the most economical of any of the modern home heating fuels. When you use 1960's OILHEAT next winter, you will be keeping money in your pocket . . . in the form of lower—far lower—monthly fuel bills.

However, now is the time to see whether you can save even more money by doing one of two things:

ONE: If you bought your oil burner in the 1940's then, just like an older car, it may not be performing at peak efficiency. Result: you may be using more oil than is necessary. Solution: Modernize your heating system. Your fuel dealer has the facts and figures on the new 1960 equipment. He will be glad to apply them to your specific needs and show you how to save up to 25% on heating bills.

TWO: Like an automobile, an oil burner should have a periodic check-up and, possibly, an adjustment. Ask your fuel dealer about this service. It may save you money next winter . . . and add years of useful life to your present oil burner.

1960's OILHEAT is a combination of fuel and equipment. Get the most out of 1960's heating oil by having your OILHEAT equipment at peak efficiency. Your New Jersey fuel dealer will be glad to show you how . . . further evidence of his personal service to you.

the weight events as PHS swept the shot put, discs and javelin, with the exception of second place in the discus. The losers also took top honors in the 880.

"We did not have the individual start team must have if it is to come in a state meet," Coach Niles said, "but we had a well-balanced team," adding, "we should have another good season next year." Much of Niles' optimism is based on the return of such winning performers this season as Fletcher, Joe Beesche, Howard Gould, Cypress, Pepper Constable and Rich Montgomery.

THIS PLACES NINTH

In State Track, Group III, Two Princeton High School entries placed in Saturday's New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association track championships at New Brunswick to give the Little Tigers ninth place in Group III. Millburn dethroned Montclair to win first place in the 64-school division.

Lamont Fletcher supplied four of the Little Tigers' seven points by placing second in the 180-yard low hurdles. Joe Beesche placed third in the javelin to provide the other three points.

LUCY, CORNELL SCORE

In State Bowling Tournament, Jack Lucy and Cy Cornell teamed up to place fourth in the net score for doubles classification in the New Jersey State Bowling Association Tournament at Edison. Their combined score also placed them 12th in the handicap section. Lucy bowled 212, 219 and 226 for a total of 657, while partner Cornell rolled up 231, 181 and 211 to give a combined score of 1280. They had a handicap of 111, making their total 1391.

TIGERS, GIANTS WIN

Take Midget League Pennants. The Nassau Oil Tigers and the Princeton Municipal Improvement Giants emerged as pennant winners from the final week of regular play in the YMCA Midget League.

The Tigers didn't take the American League pennant until the final night, when they defeated the First National Bank Indians while Hult's Yankees dropped one to the Kiwanis Club Orioles. In the National League, the PHI Giants clinched the title early and it was a battle for second place, with four teams ending up tied for third after the Rotary Club Dodgers claimed second.

Scores for the final week were: Houghton Real Estate Red Legs 10, University State Braves 3; PHI Giants 4, Haintons Lions Pirates 2; Princeton Lions Cardinals 11, Rotary Club Dodgers 9; Nassau Oil Tigers 7, First National Bank Indians 3; Kiwanis Club Orioles 7, Hults Yankees 0.

Unlucky Number: 13 Football Players Graduating

When Princeton holds its commencement exercises on Tuesday, the Class of 1960 will take with it some of the best football material to play for the Tigers in a number of seasons. As freshmen, the class was 6 and 0; on the varsity, its sophomores made major contributions to the Ivy title that was won in 1957. Overall, Princeton won 17 of 27 games while the class was in college, finishing as runner-up for the Ivy crown in '58 but dropping to a disappointing four-and-five mark last fall.

Commenting on that record, Coach Dick Colman has pointed out that two plays made the difference between a 4-5 and a 6-3 season. In the Rutgers game, the Tigers got a first down with inches to go for a touchdown as the first half was ending when a mix-up in signals served to run out the clock before the ball could be snapped. The final score was 8-6 for the Scarlet. Lack of ability to put this one play in motion almost certainly costing the victory.

Against Dartmouth, Princeton had a 7-6 lead with five minutes left when Dartmouth threw a pass on fourth down to 24 yards to go. The 81-tempt was incomplete and the Tigers, in possession, could easily have run out the clock. However, interference was ruled on the pass, the Indians kept the ball and went on to score for a 12-7 victory.

Three-fourths of the starting backfield will graduate: tailback Dan Sachs of Hopewell, quarterback Jay Cullen and fullback Mike Ippolito. Sachs and Ippolito were triple-threats, and the latter had played every position in the backfield except tailback.

Up front, two three-year lettermen who will depart are center Frank Svecster, last year's captain, and end Ed Kostelnik, a defensive stand-out. Other ends who have finished their careers are Lynn Oxenreider, a fine pass receiver; Bruce Sprague and Ron Hillegas, a pair of heavy-duty reserves.

Major replacement problems at tackle will be created by the loss of Gordon Batcheller, an all-city selection, and Bob Fisher. Barry Bates is the lone guard scheduled to graduate.

Two other standout players in 1960 had their careers cut short by injuries. A slipped disc in his back sidelined Jim Stansbury after a fine sophomore season at end, while tackle Frank Schultz sat out most of his junior and all of his senior year because of undiagnosed, recurrent headaches.

The loss by graduation is greater than the Tigers have experienced in almost a decade. The resultant rebuilding assignment is expected to take most of the upcoming season to complete, with a number of rough Saturday afternoons in store for the Orange and Black.

EYP ARCHERS VICTORS

Top YMCA Group. Boys in the Police Youth archery program defeated the YMCA archery group, 927 to 814, at the YMCA range. The tournament consisted of 14 rounds of four arrows each, with the seven top scores from each team used to compile the totals.

Tom Callaghan placed first in the under 15 group, scoring 250 out of a possible 280, while Joe Petty took second, Joe Squitieri, third, and Bob Anderson, fourth. In the under 11 division, Ted Wenzler was first, followed by David Tessen, Karl Tange and David Warburton.

John Jackson has instructed boys in both programs and was

SPORTSMEN ON TOP
As Green Gables Galax, Victory in a pair of contests during the past week gave the Sportsmen a two-game lead in the Men's Softball League but the encounter which would have had the greatest effect on the standings ended in a tie.

Tuesday night saw the pace-setters and Green Gables battle to a 1-1, eight-inning deadlock. Harry Kahny and Joe Farnham, the opposing pitchers, each threw a four hitter. The Sportsmen scored in the fifth, Green Gables retaliating in the next round and darkness ending the battle two rounds later.

Earlier, the Sportsmen edged Circle Esso, 6-4, on the strength of a 12-hit barrage, rallying to overcome a 4-2 deficit. They also trounced Sannino's, 11-1, Kahny winning both contests.

Green Gables' 7-3 victory over Sannino's for its lone decision of the week allowed the Hightstown entry to move from fifth to third place in the standings. Plainsboro, an early league leader, slipped when it split a pair of contests, falling victim to seventh place Leo's in a surprising 1-0 contest. Tony Freda was credited with the whitewash job, his mates showing the game's lone rally around in the last half of the last inning.

The second place team claimed a 7-0 forfeit over the Chemical Workers on Tuesday, raising its record to 7-1. In other games this week, Sannino's turned back Circle Esso, 7-1, Sam List pitching a one-hitter, and Teague's topped Leo's, 7-5. A six-run fourth gave that one to Teague's, which went into the round trailing, 4-1.

Games this Thursday sent Leo's against Circle Esso, Plainsboro against Teague's, Green Gables against the Chemical Workers and Sannino's against the Sportsmen. All contests are played on fields just east of Baker Rink.

Brand New...
and so convenient

... to the green countryside ... to your huge 74-foot long home of roomy livability on your own half-acre estate so perfectly situated — only 4 miles from Princeton and 7 miles from Trenton. Prices start at

$17,350

DOLPHIN-SHORES, developers of fine homes in New Jersey, New York and Connecticut, present a masterpiece in design and construction. You'd expect a price of at least $20,000 for this rambling ranch with its attractive "old" brick front and tremendous hanging flower boxes. Only Dolphin-Shores advanced techniques make such a wonderful home possible at such an attractive price. You couldn't ask for more room. All the bedrooms (3 or 4) you could want — 1½ baths — a science kitchen — a separate dining room — a spacious living room for formal entertaining and a 22-foot long mahogany paneled recreation room for informal fun with its vaulted ceiling and 8-foot louvered shutter for extra open-ness. Since only 35 of these homes are planned, we suggest an early inspection and purchase.

New Pennington Country Estates has room for everything — room for the most adventurous youngster, for family cookouts, picnic parties and yet room enough for the precious luxury of privacy. You become a part of an attractive and desirable community with all the nearby advantages of schools, houses of worship, shopping and transportation. Only minutes by car to Princeton and Trenton — just 44 miles from Philadelphia and 51 miles from New York City. Yes, when you take the road to new Pennington Country Estates, you take the road to good living.
